

Plastic Air Vent Cover – Cleaning/Replacement

View previous topic :: View next topic

Author	Message
ALTANO Joined: 02 Dec 2004 Posts: 4	Posted: 31 May 2005 01:19 pm Post subject: Rather grotty white plastic air vent on fore cabin Has anyone a method of cleaning this item. Mine is just over two years old and looks mucky. andy

Back to top

profile pm email

About Time Joined: 14 Jan 2005 Posts: 4	Posted: 01 Jun 2005 07:45 am Post subject: vent Try fender cleaner solution
--	--

Back to top

profile pm email

Éternité BOA Committee Joined: 24 Oct 2004 Posts: 25	Posted: 05 Jun 2005 08:27 pm Post subject: Jet washed I jet washed ours, it removed the dirt and the surface. We now have a clean but very rough vent!
--	---

Back to top

profile pm email

meridian Joined: 22 Nov 2004 Posts: 1	Posted: 05 Aug 2005 01:04 pm Post subject: Replacement Deck Vent Cover We got fed up with the condition of ours - also I trod on it and the centre dropped out so replacement was inevitable. However, with Opal's help, I located a rather snazzy stainless steel replacement cover, which is a Plastimo catalogue item. If you want further info, either e-mail me or call (my details are on the Committee page). Cost about £15. David Pearce, Meridian (B31)
--	---

Back to top

profile pm email

Display posts from previous:

All Posts

Oldest First

Go